

Madison City Schools is home to two of the highest-performing high schools in our state, providing students with academic and extracurricular opportunities that enhance their future. However, both schools often operate independently of each other. MadFest brings together students at both high schools to create a collaborative community festival. The event is entirely planned and organized by students at both schools. MadFest aims to connect Madison through interactive activities and meaningful service.

What is it? MadFest is an event in Madison, Alabama that combines festival fun with community service. The festival is packed with fun and engaging activities and events for all ages. Think of MadFest like your traditional county fair. We'll have basic items like food trucks, music, and inflatables, but we'll also have other exciting attractions like tethered hot air balloon rides and a car show! Additionally, the community will be given the opportunity to serve in places across the area. The event exists for the sole purpose of community connection. This year, MadFest will be held on May 3rd, 2025 at Madison City Stadium. All additional information about the event can be found at madfest.info.

Letter from the Executive Director

Last year was the inaugural MadFest. With only around two months of planning, we had thousands of attendees. The event was a huge success with great feedback from the community. Students from across the city have already been working on the planning process since August. With almost a full year of planning, we anticipate 10,000 attendees. MadFest is solely funded by community sponsors and partnerships. Your partnership with this event will yield a great return on your investment. Last year, MadFest and our sponsors appeared on marketing materials on various news and radio stations, and were advertised to all 13,000 students in the district. All donations are tax deductible and greatly appreciated! Please reach out with any questions! We look forward to working with you to build community connection!

Thank you,
Simon Adkins, MadFest Executive Director
